MERCHANTS BANK OUTING

Fellow-Workers at Boston Bank Entertained By President Ripley in Andover. Program of Sports Carried Out in Borden Gymnasium.

The officers and staff of the Merchants' National Bank of Boston were the guests of President Alfred L. Ripley at an outing held Saturday afternoon on the grounds of Phillips Academy. The guests who numbered 200 came by train and automobiles, arriving in town at three o'clock. Special cars to the Hill conveyed those who came by train. Unfortunately the heavy rain storm interfered with the program as planned, but the spacious Borden Gymnasium was utilized in the early afternoon and here the sports were held. There was a fine program of races and these were successfully carried out under the direction of Ernest W. Norton.

The races were keenly contested and some of the events caused considerable amusement, particularly the marshmallow contest, tonic race and combination wheelbarrow race.

The result of the indoor sports was as follows:

50-yard dash, men—Won by Charles Collins.

25-yard dash, women—Miss Irene Caldwell.

DARING ROBBERY

Thief Caught After Exciting Chase. Wanted in Several Towns. Sentenced to Lyman School.

Fourteen-year-old John Witkoskie of Bruce street, Lawrence, who was arrested Monday after he had entered the home of assistant Postmaster Frank S. McDonald on Chestnut street where he had obtained $40.00 in cash from a bureau was wanted by the Lawrence, Haverhill and Methuen police on charges of breaking and entering residences and stores in those cities.

The boy, alleged to be one of the most daring juvenile robbers taken into custody in this section for some time led Mr. McDonald, Patrick Barrett, John Robertson and George Pierce a merry chase through several streets before he was caught by Mr. McDonald.

Monday morning about 8.00 o'clock Mrs. McDonald was surprised to find a youth in her home and on asking him what he wanted, he said he thought it was a two-tenement house and he was looking for the party upstairs. Mrs. McDonald became suspicious and locking the door ordered the intruder to

A seventh-inning rally by the Knights of Columbus team gave them the first game of the series with Smith and Dove on the latter's playing field last night, the score being 3 to 2. The result of the game was in doubt until the last Smith and Dove batter was out in this inning, as they succeeded in getting men on bases and the excitement of both players and fans was intense. A false move by the Smith and Dove coach who after walking, attempted to steal second but was caught, probably cost his team the game, as the next man walked and there were none out at the time. By playing safe there is no telling what might have happened.

That there was keen rivalry between the teams was shown both by the action of the players and by the loyal support given them by the rooters. The third base line was taken up by the K. of C. fans while the mill team was cheered from the bank along the first base line. Every play whether good or bad was given its share of applause. The crowd threatened to interrupt the game in the seventh inning and after a slight delay in putting those back who were over zealous in their rooting, the game was resumed.

The managers of the rival teams were doing their utmost to out-general each other. Instructions were passed out to popular human interest plays given to the stage in recent years.

ARLINGTON

The Arlington Theatre will reopen Monday night, August 16, with "Turn to the Right," one of the

There has been a somewhat notable addition to the cast of veteran principles in the person of Maude Odell, Jr., daughter of the musical comedy favorite of that name, who will make her stage debut here. Other members of the organization, some of whom have appeared more than 1000 times in their respective roles, are Jane Ellison, Charles W. Goodrich, Sidney Henderson, Leo Chalzel, Maude Huntley, Joseph Striker, Joseph Bernard, John O'Connor, Joseph Allenton, George Spelvin and Beatrice Hughes.

The Messrs. Shubert announce a new policy for the Arlington Theatre this season. They will present established successes which have previously had long runs in Boston or in New York at much lower prices than was charged for the original productions. The top price for the best seats at the Arlington will be $1.50 with a Wednesday matinee each week when the best seats will be seventy-five cents.

The attractions for the earlier weeks of the season include a wide variety of productions; opening with "Turn to the Right" on August 16th, to be followed by a society play, "Mrs. Jimmy Thompson." Then will come on October 4th, "Betty Be Good," to be followed by Nance O'Neil in "The Passion Flower."

remain while she went upstairs and investigated. She found that $40.00 was missing from her bureau and descending to the ground floor found that the youth had disappeared. She gave the alarm and notified her husband who with others joined in the chase and finally captured the thief on Summer street.

A bill fold found in the boy's pocket after his arrest gave the name of a member of Olivet Commandery, Haverhill. This led the Andover officials to get in touch with Haverhill authorities and after being taken to Haverhill the boy was charged with breaking and entering a house near the High School city. After his trip to Haverhill, he was taken to Andover where he was committed to the jail and charged with breaking and entering a house near the High School city.

The boy is said to have confessed to Inspector Byron that he had entered the home of William D. Phinney at 5 State street and obtained $40.00. The marshal tried to connect the youth with a break on Oakland avenue but he stoutly maintained he did not do the job. When asked how he operated he said when he saw a door open he just went in, and making an exploration took what he could find, if it was cash. To Inspector Byron he scoffed at the ability of his captors stating that they never would have caught him had he not stumbled and fallen while being pursued.

Witkoskie was brought back to Andover and given a hearing by Judge Albion O. Pierce of Methuen in the Andover police court Tuesday afternoon.

His case was continued until Thursday when he was brought into juvenile court and sentenced to the Lyman School in Westborough by Judge Albion O. Pierce of Methuen.

A Trip To Nova Scotia

Editor of Andover Townsman,

Dear Sir:

Thinking that some of the people in Andover might be interested in Nova Scotia, I will try to give you a little pen sketch of my trip as far as I have gone. Started on the Prince Arthur from Boston at 6.00 a.m., following morning landed for custom inspection 6.30.

Mrs. Tinkham (whom so many know in and around Andover), with her brother, met me at 7.00, arriving at their home in Ohio, which is about seven miles out, at 8.00 o'clock. All around outside of Yarmouth is a wonderful farming district. The haying is very much behind on account of so much heavy fog which does not clear off until about 10.00 or 11.00 a.m., and sometimes hangs around all day, as has been the case during my sojourn here. I have had some wonderful drives while here. I was taken to Port Maitland where a lot of the Nova Scotia lobsters are caught and sent to Boston. Fifteen to twenty cents a pound here, forty and eighty in Boston. It was a wonderful sight but goes out here about twenty feet leaving the boats high and dry on the mud flats and near the wharves.

We were just leaving Port Maitland when a thick blanket of fog enveloped us. Mrs. Tinkham's brother was so busy pointing out and telling me about interesting things that he had not noticed it. A stranger would have been lost, but it took us quite a while to creep home and that is about all one can do for fear of running someone down. There are not so many machines and autos as one would think but a large number of oxen. This scene brought me back to forty years ago in Andover. All the heavy work in the way of teaming is done by oxen. The farmers around in this part are combating the grain people by raising their own grain, oats and hay largely, and make most of their living by the product of the cows. Everyone raises his own potatoes etc., for his own use and a few over. I am told that a certain enterprising Boston man came down here last winter, bought all the potatoes he could for $2.50 a bushel and sold them for $6.00. Things are somewhat cheaper here than at home; eggs fifty and sixty cents a dozen; meat thirty to forty-five cents a pound; milk seven cents; peas $5.50 to $2.00 per bushel, and other garden truck accordingly. Labor is scarce and what there is insist on $3.00 and $4.00 per day, nine hours. Perhaps some of my friends of the Natural History Society would have liked to see what I did last Wednesday — a body of water about the size of Pumps Pond and some larger, completely covered with pink and white pond lilies. All I could do was look with wonder and amazement and exclaim "Beautiful! beautiful!"

I attended a United Church picnic, a twenty mile drive to Little Brazil Lake. People don't think of going that distance in their team and ox carts with two sets in them. I guess I was introduced to everybody there and there were a large number. The small lake was about the size of Haggets. The Grand lakes nearby are chain lakes, six miles long and one across. Just think of it, not a camp or bungalow in sight. If it were near Boston I tried to imagine it covered with the usual cheap cottages. They are full of fish but it would cost me $10.00 for a license so I thought it would be cheaper to go without fishing. Friday the 7th I went to a sportsman's and guide's picnic at Yarmouth near one of the several lakes. I guess there were about 10,000 people there witnessing the water sports etc. One of the guides shot twenty-three eggs out of a possible twenty-four. I have never seen anything of that kind done before and an imitation deer was going back and forth in the bushes on a wire for sportsmen and guides to win their shooting laurels. I met several Boston people at that place there were also people from New York in their machines. There were a number of New England and New York people who have their summer homes outside of Yarmouth. My last trip was to the Mountain Cemetery which is beyond any description I can write. Of it I might say in passing that at the entrance you are met with a bed of tuberous begonias all colors and some of the flowers measure six inches across. A fountain was in the centre of a small pond which was full of large pink and white pond lilies. Imagine the sight if you can!

Left Yarmouth at 8.30 for New Glasgow. The scenery by the way, was wonderful to say the least, and no wonder it is called the Switzerland of Nova Scotia. The Annapolis Valley apple crop is going to be short I am informed, and I don't doubt it for I saw very little fruit on the trees. Grand Pre, the land of Evangeline is a very flat, level section of the country. The old willow trees and the dykes are there as the Acadians left them and I have been told a sort of park is being made of it.

J. D. Blackshaw
Successor to F. E. Whiting
Andover, Mass.

All the way along you see pile after pile of lumber of all kinds scattered hither thither, seemingly not cared for. Eighteen to thirty per thousand I have been told they get for it here.

Arrived in New Glasgow 10.40 p.m., a long trip from Yarmouth. I have been waiting for my late wife's sister to come from Little Harbor to meet me. You can't telephone here on Sunday or get your shoes shined or buy a soft drink. Everything is shut up tight and you have the Sunday here as it was in good old Andover thirty years ago. It really seems strange to experience a quiet Sunday and there are very few automobiles on the go. The hotel where I am stopping is the Norfolk Hotel of seventy-five rooms, where I have a very pleasant room with all modern conveniences at $4.00 per day. The surroundings are very pleasant and agreeable with a good table and good variety of well-cooked food. Every room is full with tourists mostly from the States, who are motoring all through the Provinces.

While coming from Yarmouth quite a number of people had a car to themselves. Some of the men who came through the car I was in and found out I was an I. O. O. F. They were going up for me, every Rebekah had her lunch basket open for me. Just because I didn't smoke, cigars and cigarettes were as nothing so I was very pleasantly entertained on my way. Most everybody I met in and around Yarmouth was an I. O. O. F. or a Rebekah.

What's done as much as anything else to fill up the movie houses

LOOK at the crowds that step out of their cars in front of the movies every summer evening.

The movie managers would be renting half of their theatres for store space, if it weren't for the automobile.

II

It is typical of Americans that they took to the automobile as a matter of course — just as they have to the movies and to every other great invention of the last half century.

And the same thing has happened everytime. Taking things as they come is a fine way to foster waste and extravagance.

As regards tires, the comeback is about due. People are pretty near through paying for something that isn't there when they look for it.

III

What a man pays for in a tire is quality—not a limited number of miles or the privilege of getting a rebate in case the miles don't come up to the limit.

U. S. Tires are guaranteed as to quality—with no limitation of mileage.

And that holds just as good for the small car tire as for the biggest U. S. Tire we've got. There's only one standard of quality with U. S.—and the size of the car has nothing whatever to do with it.

IV

We represent U. S. Tires in this town. You'll find it worth while to talk to us before you buy any more tires.

Select your tires according to the roads they have to travel:

In sandy or hilly country, wherever the going is apt to be heavy—The U. S. Nobby.

For ordinary country roads—The U. S. Chain or Usco.

For front wheels—The U. S. Plain.

For best results—everywhere—U. S. Royal Cords.

Mountains from Andover

Mountains are visible from Andover, sometimes; and I say "sometimes" with good reason for the days are rare when they are easily seen. Days and even weeks go by when they are not visible at all. Then again some days they are clearer than others, sometimes the outlines are very faint, and their color almost the same as that of the sky near the horizon. Other days they stand out sharply, dark blue against the lighter blue of the sky. A cool or cold north-west wind is usually the sign of a clear day to see the mountains. Different hours of the day cause a difference in their visibility, due to the different angle of the sun's rays as they strike them. Perhaps the most pleasing and inspiring sight of them is after sundown on a very clear day. The source of light behind them throws their outlines into sharp relief, and they grow a darker and darker blue, until they gradually fade out of sight.

I have been told that it is possible to see Mt. Washington from Andover. I have not seen it but live in hopes. I have looked in the proper direction many times, and speaking truthfully, I think it is a vain hope.

Once upon a time asked a person to point out Mt. Monadnock to me. I was introduced to a hill standing alone. I was skeptical, not because it was standing alone, but because it seemed to me that it was too far north. I studied it up on the map, and found that there is a regular wall of high hills between Monadnock and the town of Andover, so that it could not possibly show as standing alone.

After a trip to Mount Uncanoonuc, I found my bearings in Andover. A little north of west from the hills of this town can be seen two high hills. They are beside each other, are nearly the same height and are so nearly alike that they seem like twins. They loom higher than any of the others. The one on the left is Pack Monadnock; it is near the town lines of Temple and Peterboro in New Hampshire and rises to an elevation of 2250 feet above sea level. Its partner is North Pack Monadnock, in the town of Greenfield, N. H., and is 2257 feet high. These two are in the arc of a circle distant from Andover about forty-two miles. Starting at a point west from this town, with Watatic, between Ashburnham and Ashby, Massachusetts and near the state line, then going to the right are, in New Hampshire, Barrett, Mt., Temple Mt., the two Packs, and Lyndeboro Mt. Crotchet Mt. is farther away, forty-seven miles, in Franconstown and is 2014 feet high. Joe English Hill is in New Boston, thirty-six miles away and 1100 feet high. Uncanoonuc is in Goffstown, thirty-six miles off and 1348 feet high.

From some of the high places in Andover can be seen Shirley Hill, near Uncanoonuc, but not so high.

South of west from Andover and forty-two miles away is Wachusett in Princeton, Massachusetts and 2008 feet high. Looking by the southern peak of Temple Mt., one can see Grand Monadnock in the town of Jaffrey, N. H., fifty-five miles away and 3166 feet above sea level. Just the top of this mountain shows over the wall of other hills, its color is fainter showing its greater distance.

To the right of Uncanoonuc and nearer north is a group of hills. These hills are farther north than any of the other hills spoken of and my heart of New England map is not large enough to show them, and I do not know their names. These same hills I have seen from Mt. Uncanoonuc, and I am sure that no one of them is Mount Washington, for I have seen Washington from Uncanoonuc at the same time that I have seen these hills.

If you have courage you may get capital, but if you have capital and haven't courage somebody that has courage eventually will get your capital and then you won't have anything.

The cocky man ought to expect to be heepped. You're old when you cease doing new things.

In order to acquaint the public with the general telephone situation, and some of the reasons for delay in completing new installations—chief among which is the difficulty of getting the numerous kinds of necessary material—we have prepared a series of announcements of which this is the second.

Reserve Telephone Equipment Exhausted

We used to engineer our plant—switchboards, cables, circuits, and all necessary parts thereof—to anticipate by several years the growth of population or manufacturing in any particular place or region. Consequently, we were always able to meet promptly demands for service, no matter how large or unexpected.

Hence, during the war period we were able to give service to a rapidly increasing list of subscribers, although we had little priority consideration as a necessary industry and were compelled by government restriction to abandon our normal programme of advance construction.

When the war ended, however, these reserve facilities had been almost wholly pre-empted by the growing demand. Our usual reserve of central offices, switchboards, power plants, conduits, cables, manholes, pole lines no longer existed. We required rubber, paper, copper wire, lumber, silk, clay, glass, porcelain, paraffin, and many other things not ordinarily associated in the public mind with telephone service, in order to restore our reserves.

Every business man will realize the difficulty experienced in getting some, if not all, of these things. We had to get all, or devise some efficient substitute for those which could not be had.

We have installed more new telephones thus far this year than in any previous similar period of telephone history; and we could have done still more but for the exhaustion of our reserve equipment caused by general conditions of production and transportation. These are showing signs of improvement, however.

Our morale is good. Our people are earnestly desirous of giving good service and of extending it as fast as possible. Although there are many persons to whom we cannot at once give telephone service because of conditions wholly outside our organization, we are determined to meet their desires as soon as it is humanly possible to do so.

LAWRENCE

Friday, August 6—The meeting of the Republican women of the city last night in the City Council chambers was well attended. Mrs. James D. Tillinghast, chairman of the Republican Women's executive committee of the state and Hon. Joseph D. Warner, Speaker of the House and candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, gave interesting addresses. Mayor William P. White was presented last evening with a 1921 American Six touring car, the gift being made by people of Lawrence who take this means of showing their admiration for him. This is the second time that the Mayor has received such a gift, the previous one being under his administration back in 1909. The faith of Lawrence investors in Charles Ponzi seems to have been justified and local people are already reaping the benefits. One well-known letter carrier, drew down $4,200 from an investment of $2,800 Thursday. Local people have always had a reputation for being good, game gamblers, and they showed it in the recent Ponzi panic. The majority of the local investors "sat tight" and refused to draw their money, with the result that the future now looks rosy and many of them are already cashing in for their principal and the fifty per cent interest. Employees of the dyeing department of the Wood mill have been ordered to report for work Monday morning. This has given rise to a feeling that the reopening of the mills may not be far off. The dyers have been called to recolor a quantity of woolen goods now on hand and not for any new orders, as none have been received.

Saturday, August 7—Lawrence is to have another Company F. This time, however, it will be Company F, 1st Supply Train, Massachusetts National Guard. The company which has yet to be organized, will be under the command of Leon C. Waite, formerly captain and supply officer of the old 8th Infantry, N. G.; the 5th U. S. Pioneer Infantry, C. T.; and the 90th U. S. Infantry during the late World War. Further curtailment in local mills were announced today. The night spinners at the Monomac mills have been laid off for an indefinite period, and next week, it is understood, there will be a partial curtailment in Kunhardt's mill. The menders, it is understood, will be laid off. Mr. Kunhardt stated this morning that the looms will run full next week. The E. Frank Lewis Wool Scouring mill has resumed partial operation, so as to take care of small orders that have come in. The monthly report for July of Miss Josephine Born, supervisor of the Child Welfare Department, shows a big decrease in the number of sick babies in the city. This is largely due to the good work of the nurses who are devotedly watching over all the babies and using every effort to keep them from becoming sick. Fewer babies sick mean fewer deaths and the records of the Board of Health show Lawrence to be well up in the list of industrial cities in regard to infant death rate. Clinics are held every Monday and Thursday afternoons from two to five at 35 Jackson street, and on Tuesday afternoons at the same hour at the Packard School annex in South Lawrence. The report is as follows: Babies visited, 1473; referred to hospital, 15; old cases, 2762 new cases, 217; discharged by death, 16; discharged by age limit, 121; other causes, 36; babies visiting clinic, 309.

Monday, August 9—The second chapter of the great Ponzi Finance mystery was begun this morning at 9:30 o'clock when the local offices of the Securities Exchange company were thrown open again for business after a lapse of a few weeks. This time, however, it is not to be conducted along the "50 per cent plan in forty-five days," but, according to Percy Lamb, manager of the local offices, it is the forming of a gigantic import, export and banking business, expected to pay 50 per cent, probably 100 per cent, possibly 200 per cent. Up to one o'clock fifty signers had pledged themselves to invest $40,000.

Wednesday, Aug. 11—The Lawrence British club will hold a flower and vegetable show Saturday, August 28th, at the club on Cambridge street. The exhibits will be a competition of the best showing of quality and the contest is open to members of the club only.

The final papers were passed Tuesday morning in the formal transfer of of the Riding Park from the Bicknell estate to the city of Lawrence and the former owners received a check for $30,500 as the purchase price. City Solicitor Daniel J. Murphy handled the city's end and Attorney James A. Donovan represented the Bicknell Estate. The fifth Twilight Party was held by the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Department on the Hampshire Street Common, Tuesday night. A crowd of at least 2200 was entertained with moving pictures and community singing. Miss Emma Carr, dressed as a gypsy and Mrs. G. E. Lombard representing a Puritan, entertained large crowds of youngsters with stories previous to the pictures. Between the stories and the pictures, while waiting for darkness, G. E. Lombard of the Industrial Department led the crowd in community singing. G. Edgar Folk of the Industrial Department presided at the picture machine.

METHUEN

Saturday, August 7—A meeting of the Forest Street Union church society has been called for Monday evening, at 7:30 o'clock to take action on calling a pastor to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the former pastor, Rev. E. C. Davis. Action will also be taken on providing a house for the new pastor. Senator Fred Butler seeks a renomination and will have for his opponents Mayor Samuel Rush-ton of Methuen and Representative James W. Robertson of North Andover. The winner will have as his opponent from the Democratic side, Attorney Daniel W. Mahoney of Lawrence. For Representatives, Methuen presents the names of William L. Steadman and Robert W. Dow who seek re-election, and from Lawrence, James C. Crombie and John Seal are the candidates. There are no Democratic candidates and the Republican nominees will have a clear field. Edward F. Searles, multi-millionaire, died Friday afternoon at his home, "Pine Lodge," Methuen, aged seventy-nine years. Mr. Searles was known to be ill for some months past and although secrecy was maintained by the attending physicians it was known that death was expected.

The closing exercises and exhibition of the work of the children of the summer school in the Pleasant Valley district were held in the Elizabeth Bradley schoolhouse and were attended by a large gathering of interested friends of the institution and parents of the pupils. This completes the eleventh successful season of the school. This school is conducted under the auspices of Samuel Adams chapter, D. A. R., in conjunction with the International Institute of Lawrence, and its popularity among the young folks has been demonstrated by the fact that an average attendance of seventy children, boys and girls, has been maintained during the five-weeks' session.

Wednesday, Aug. 11—The late Edward Francis Searles, millionaire philanthropist and patron of art, who died Friday afternoon at his residence, "Appleisle," Methuen, was laid at rest this morning at 11:00 o'clock in the crypt, "Egypt," recently erected on his estate. The obsequies were marked by the same aloofness and quietness which characterized the late benefactor during his long life. Rev. Charles H. Oliphant, pastor emeritus of the First Congregational church of Methuen, was the officiating clergyman. Everett C. Truette, a Boston organist played several hymns on the great organ at Mr. Searles' mansion during the services. Relatives were present from this city, Providence, R. I.; and Nashua, N. H., business associates in public life in Lawrence, Methuen and New York City. United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was among those present. The last will and testament of the late Edward Francis Searles of Methuen was filed for probate in Salem, Tuesday afternoon by the executors of the will, Attorney Louis L. Delafield of New York and Arthur T. Walker of New York. No bequests were made to any civic, charitable or religious institution. Several employees at the Methuen place were given legacies. Three minor children of his cousin, Mrs. Mary N. Rowland and their mother received the largest bequests. Mrs. Rowland was given one million dollars outright. The estate "Pine Lodge" was left to them as a residence and he expresses the hope that they will take the name of Searles which was their mother's maiden name. The Rowlands live in Philadelphia. Mrs. Rowland is a widow. "Pine Lodge" will inevitably pass into the hands of Benjamin Allan Rowland, the oldest son. If he should die without issue it will pass to George Rodman Rowland, second son, and should he too die, without issue, it shall go to John Bruce Rowland. A trust fund of two and one-half million dollars is created for Benjamin Allan Rowland and trusts of one-half million each for the younger boys. The two men named as executors of the will are also designated as trustees for the trust funds. Albert Victor Searles of Providence, nephew of the Methuen man was left the sum of a quarter of a million dollars. There are no restrictions. Miss Edith Littlefield, another cousin, who took charge of "Pine Lodge" for the past twenty-five years, is given Park Lodge in Methuen and the sum of $100,000 outright. William Shillaber, Jr., treasurer of the New York Globe is given all his stock in the Newfoundland Packing Company. The residuary legatee is "my friend Arthur T. Walker" of New York, who is named as executor and trustee of the various funds. Directions are given that the trustees and executors shall not be asked to supply securities. It is also provided that any one trying to break the will or opposing it at probate shall forfeit his share and that it shall go to the University of California.

NORTH ANDOVER

Monday, August 9—A large congregation attended the services in St. Paul's church, Sunday morning, when Rt. Rev. Arthur W. Moulton, bishop of Utah delivered an eloquent sermon. The rector, Rev. William E. Patrick, conducted the service. The barn and adjacent shed of the old Kate Johnson estate on Stevens street, North Andover, was totally destroyed yesterday afternoon by fire. The cause of the fire is unknown. Attorney and Mrs. Cornelius J. Mahoney of Wilson's Corner came up from Buzzards Bay where they are spending their vacation with their children, to attend the outing given by Attorney Walter Coulson to the directors of the Lawrence Trust Company and their wives at his summer home at Salisbury beach.

Wednesday, Aug. 11—A party composed of about twenty members of Passaconaway Campfire Group of the North Parish church returned Monday by auto from Hampton Falls, N. H., where they passed a week at the farm of the minister, Rev. E. J. Prescott. They were accompanied by Mrs. Prescott, assistant guardian, her sister, Miss Maisie C. Burpee of Winthrop and Mrs. Isaac Osgood. Stevens Mill is being operated four days this week. Among those who attended the funeral of Edward F. Searles of Methuen, Tuesday afternoon were Judge Newton P. Frye and County Commissioner James C. Poor. Troop 3, Boy Scouts of St. Paul's parish, will have an over-night hike to South Groveland next Friday evening, leaving at 6:30 o'clock from Assistant Scoutmaster Manchester's home, 271 Sutton street. For those who cannot go Friday night another group under Assistant Scoutmaster Nelson will leave his house, 27 Columbia road, Saturday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock. It is hoped that all members will participate. The members of Troop 1, of South Groveland who have been camping at Lake Cochichewick for the past week, will return to South Groveland, Friday evening with the local troop.

War Brides Away.

Incompatibility of American and French customs has caused 12,000 of approximately 50,000 French war brides to return to France, according to Mrs. Reginald H. Johnson, president of the recently organized L'Espoir Franco-American club in Pittsburgh. The club, formed at the suggestion of Mlle. Odette de Bouglon of Paris, who was in Pittsburgh recently, is expected to broaden the interests of French girls who became the brides of Americans overseas, and to make them contented in their new homes.

A Growing Candidate

There is considerable evidence that while one candidate for the Presidency is pursuing a pretty well laid out plan that has "consistency" stamped all over it, the other gentleman almost daily reminds one of the famous show that used to travel with the circus under the title of "Box and Cox."

Senator Harding has made practically no mistakes since his nomination by the Republican party. His addresses have been admirable; his attitude on the important issues upon which the campaign must be fought has been consistent and intensely American. No questions presented to him have been sidestepped, and no problems that he has had to consider have failed to receive the consideration that would be expected from one seeking the high office that he does. His treatment of visitors has had the touch that has increased his personal admirers with every new delegation that visits Marion. As was predicted by those who knew him at the time of his nomination, every day has added new lustre, and given renewed assurance that the party made no mistake in choosing him for its leader.

If this situation had been brought about through the kind of trimming that so many men are inclined to do, and that unfortunately Governor Cox appears to be an adept in, we might have some question whether it would be wise to put Senator Harding into the White House. There is nothing of this sort in the situation to complicate, and the Republican party and the country at large are to be congratulated that Senator Harding as a candidate gives promise of being the kind of American the nation needs as its chief executive.

A Welcome Sign

Unless we are greatly mistaken, the one commanding issue in the coming campaign, when the public begins to analyze situations, will have to do with the enormous waste that can be shown in connection with the handling of the government in the last eight years of Democratic administration. It is not going to be sufficient to have it all charged up to the war. The public is going to be told that there are many other things entering into the burden that is now placed upon everybody in the form of taxation, than those things that were required for the prosecution of the war. The public is not only going to be told this, but it is going to be given such information regarding the situation that it will be pretty difficult for those responsible to get away from it.

No more important matter can be brought to the attention of the average citizen of the United States than information regarding the burden which incompetent government places upon every man, woman and child in the United States. One of the most welcome signs of the times is the manner in which statisticians and even government representatives handle the burden of taxes, reducing the problem in every case to fit the individual. This will be a campaign issue that will not only have effect upon the fortunes of the party that must bear the burden, but it will be a campaign issue in which the education of the public will be promoted in a valuable way.

Can the Public Carry the Load?

The wage raise for all employees of the railroads was followed this week by a like increase to all of the employees of the express companies. Here again the manner in which this increase bears upon the individual will be very well shown by statistics in process of preparation at the present time, but there is not the least question but that it will be a pretty heavy fixed charge upon every individual in the United States because of this latest increase to the particular operatives benefited.

There is an important question associated with this situation, however, at the present time, that may well be made a matter of record; and that question is, can the traffic bear this enormous advance, and have the railroads continue to do business? Street railways have demonstrated that when you pass the natural fare basis of a nickel, people begin to find some other way of riding. We may well question whether in the readjustment of conditions affecting all transportation, with a freedom of operation guaranteed to new forms of transportation, we may not find the railroads losing a large part of the business, because the excessive cost makes it possible for other mediums to do the business better. Railroad transportation today is in the position where it has less efficiency than almost ever in the history of the service. The public is demanding more efficiency and if the railroads do give sufficiently improved service it is possible that they may hold a large part of their business. The revolution of the wheel is much more likely, however, to find the improved service coming from new agents, with an efficiency on the part of the railroads that has been lessened because of the smaller amount of business done, rather than improved because of the higher rate at which it has been done.

Speaking of street cars, there is evidence that the most pitiful example of bad management with unsatisfactory service, with constantly lessening income, is to be found in that particular organization that is attempting to provide street car service for the Merrimack valley. Almost every obligation that the company is supposed to have, has now been denied, and about the only thing left is the likelihood of a still further increase in wages to the employees, with a steadily declining earning sheet. Some day somebody is going to be held accountable for the bad management responsible for this situation.

Republican Outing Meets Committee

Abel R. Campbell of Lowell, a director at large of the Republican League of Massachusetts, was chosen to preside at the big Republican rally and outing to be held at Canobie Lake park, August 21st, at a meeting of the general committee held Tuesday evening in the council chambers at the Methuen city hall. Thomas W. Began, chairman of the committee, presided.

Final arrangements for the outing were made at the meeting and judging from the enthusiasm shown it will be a big success. The League of Amesbury, Reading, Haverhill, Lowell, Andover, Lawrence and Methuen were represented.

B. H. Hayes of Andover, who is in charge of the headquarters speakers' bureau announced that Lieut. Gov. Channing Cox will be unable to be present at the outing. Major Frank W. Knox of Manchester, N. H., has been substituted. The other speakers will be U. S. Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, Congressman John Jacob Rogers of Lowell and Speaker of the Massachusetts House, Joseph E. Warner.

The Park theater has been secured for the afternoon and the Arlington mill band under the leadership of George Tetley, will give a concert previous to the speaking. Community singing will be led by Albert E. Brown.

Pythian Sisters' Outing Saturday

Garfield Temple Pythian Sisters will hold their annual outing at Revere beach, Saturday and the trip will be made by auto barges. Tickets are on sale and may be had from the committee which comprises: Miss Sarah Hilton, chairman; Mrs. George J. York, David MacDonald and Thomas Gorrie.

Beverly Clan and Auxiliary Entertained by Clan Johnston

Clan Wallace and Ladies' Auxiliary of Beverly paid a fraternal visit to Clan Johnston, Friday night and were very pleasantly entertained by the local clansmen and their auxiliary. The visitors came by auto barge arriving at eight o'clock. After the business session, Chief John MacGrath extended a hearty welcome to the members of the visiting organizations, following which an entertainment was given.

Several of the Beverly clansmen and the ladies' auxiliary took part and vocal solos were rendered by James Cram, James Bright and Mrs. David MacLellan and concertina solos were played by John Donnelly. Clansman Bright very appropriately sang "The Battle of Sterling Bridge," which told of the deeds of the great Wallace, for whom the Beverly Clan is named.

Members of the local clan and auxiliary also contributed to the program and solos were rendered by Miss Marjory Bissett and Miss Martha Jack and by Clansmen Thomas Holden, Robert Williams, Robert Cargill and Henry Fairweather. The latter also delighted the audience with a finished declamation of Burns' "Man Was Made to Mourn."

Words in appreciation of the hospitality of the local clan were voiced by Charles A. Petrie, chief of Clan Wallace and by Mrs. Daniel Low, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Visitors from Clan Grant of Lowell were present and included Past Chief James MacGrath and Frank MacLellan. Dancing followed and refreshments were served by the committee: John Elder, William A. R. Gordon, John Auchterlonie, George Page, David Forbes, James Sorrie and James Benvie.

Before the Beverly delegation left for home a cordial invitation was extended the local Clan and Auxiliary to visit Clan Wallace and this will be done in the near future.

At the business session of Clan Johnston preceding the visit of the Beverly organizations, the clan decided to observe the Burns' anniversary next January and the following committee of arrangements was chosen: John Elder, chairman; Thomas Low, Jr., George Baxter, William A. R. Gordon, George Page, David Forbes, Samuel R. Harris, Edward Downs and James Ruxton.

Clan Stewart 67 of North Cambridge will visit the local clan on Friday, August 20th.

Women Preparing for Political Campaign

The executive committee of the woman's division of the Republican town committee in Andover will hold its first meeting this afternoon at half-past four at the home of the chairman, 39 School street.

The enthusiasm which pervaded yesterday's meeting of women voters who held an all-day session at Pilgrim hall, Boston, will be infused into this committee by the local chairman. In many towns like Andover the question of voting is met by the women at first with disinterestedness and apathy, but when it is presented as a new privilege and a patriotic duty, progress begins to be made.

Yesterday's program included a registration rally and a mock election, followed by the formal opening of the handsomely furnished suite of rooms at 67 Milk street which are to be used by the woman's division of the Republican state committee. About three hundred women representing cities and towns scattered over the entire Commonwealth came together for instructions concerning registration and voting and to be enlightened on practical politics.

An extremely interesting demonstration of the entire process of registering and balloting was given which brought out all the points where errors or omissions might be made through ignorance, carelessness or lack of information. The different steps to be taken by the alien, naturalized and native-born citizens were carefully explained in a very clear and explicit manner.

The educational value of the demonstration was so much appreciated that representative women made inquiries about having a similar "performance," particularly of the mock election, in their districts and from the evident general interest, such mock elections will soon be instructing and entertaining women in many districts. The fact that the mock election is entertaining may be put down to the credit of the author, Mrs. William O. Brown of Medford.

Mrs. F. J. Carruth gave an introductory explanation of registration, nomination of candidates, the primaries and the election rules and regulations.

Mrs. Frederick P. Bagley, chairman of the meetings emphasized the purpose of the rally and meeting—to get every woman who can to vote, and vote intelligently. Mrs. Bagley also introduced Mrs. Amelia Fowler, a modern Betsey Ross, who gave a very interesting and illuminating talk on the evolution of our national flag, and displayed nine flags representing the various stages through which it has passed. Mrs. Fowler has probably made and repaired more flags than any woman in the country and is considered an authority on the American flag.

Following the "election" a reception was held in the new headquarters in the Equitable Building. Invitations had been widely sent and there were many who attended to inspect the beautiful suite, on the fifth floor, which has recently been leased and equipped.

Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, chairman of the woman's division; Mrs. James D. Tillinghast, chairman, and Mrs. William Lowell Putnam of Boston, Mrs. E. F. Wellington of Malden, Mrs. F. R. Batchelder of Worcester, Miss Katherine Leonard of Springfield, Mrs. Frank Rand of Haverhill, Mrs. Paul Keene of Brookline and Mrs. Edward Durfee of Fall River, members of the executive committee, were in the receiving line.

Tea was served from 4.00 to 5.30 o'clock. Mrs. George W. Perkins of Boston, Mrs. F. L. Pigeon, East Boston; Mrs. George W. Kwoitton, Jr., West Upton, and Miss Frances Elder of Winchester, being those who poured.

Legion Delegates Chosen

The executive committee of Andover Post No. 8, American Legion, met Monday evening at headquarters in special session, Paul M. Cheney, commander, presiding. The principal business was the election of delegates to attend the state convention to be held at Springfield in the auditorium on Friday and Saturday, August 27th and 28th.

The delegates elected were William Holden, leader, and Lester F. Abbott; alternates, Arthur R. Lewis and Markham W. Stackpole. The delegates go unpledged and vote to the best of their judgment on all issues that may come up. The delegates were voted $50.00 for expenses.

It was announced that letters and blanks had been sent out to all service men except 100, and these will go at once, for information to be used in compiling the history of Andover in the World War. It is important that these blanks and pictures be returned to Dr. C. M. Fuess, Main street, Andover, at the earliest possible moment so that the compilation of the book may go forward.

Notice

The next meeting of the Board of Registrars will be held at the Town House Wednesday evening, August 25th, from seven o'clock till ten.

Loses Part of Her Tongue

When a valuable cow belonging to Xavier Couture of West Andover refused her breakfast Monday morning, her owner was much puzzled. Upon examining the cow more closely he discovered blood on her flanks and about the stall, and further investigation revealed the fact that a large piece had been removed from the end of her tongue and the inflammation in the injured member was giving the poor creature great pain.

Although Mr. Couture has owned the cow but a short time he thought her sufferings should be ended and summoned McGovern. Upon the advice of Chief Smith, which was later confirmed by the state officer for the S. P. C. A., Charles Clark of Lynn, it was decided to give the animal a chance to recover. She is now able to drink and eat a little wet mash and hopes of her complete recovery are entertained.

Foul play is suspected, although it is incredible that anyone should be so brutal as to inflict such needless torture on a dumb beast.

Goes on Naval Training Cruise

Walter L. Kefee of 44 High street left Wednesday for a ten-days' naval training cruise. He reported at the Charlestown Navy Yard and was assigned to a U. S. S. destroyer and will return August 25th.

He served in the navy in the World War and enlisted the day after war was declared at the age of seventeen years. He made rapid progress and passed his examinations at Annapolis for ensign, but did not receive the rank on account of his age. He became an expert on the Lewis machine gun and was sent as an instructor to various training camps.

Later he went overseas with the R. R. naval battery and was at Soissons, France, when the armistice was signed. At that time he was in charge of a battery of Lewis guns and held the rank of provisional first lieutenant in the army.

Since his return to civil life he has been employed as an electrician.

Field Meeting at Shawshen Grove

The August meeting of the Andover Natural History Society will be held on Saturday afternoon, August 28th, at Shawshen Grove where the camp of Maynard Clemons has been placed at the disposal of the Society.

Beverly Fishing Trip

Sunday a very enjoyable fishing trip was held at Beverly by the Overseers' Club of the Smith and Dove Company and twenty members attended. The party left early in the morning and on arriving at Beverly boarded the Victor II and were soon at their fishing grounds. The day proved ideal and as a result there was a big catch of fish, 100 pounds being taken aboard. Joe Connolly was chairman of the committee. The party arrived home soon after seven o'clock.

Fred Coles, president; Ira Buxton, secretary; Alexander McKenzie, treasurer; board of directors, Ivan Steadman, William Collins, William Ross, Fred Collins and Herbert Lyle.

Forty-four New Voters

The board of registrars of voters were in session at the Town House Wednesday night to give an opportunity for new voters to enroll before the primaries.

There was little interest shown by women and only five appeared for enrollment. It is expected, however, that there will be a big attendance of women at the registration sessions previous to the election if as now seems likely, the suffrage amendment is ratified. There were fifteen Scotchmen enrolled as voters Wednesday night, which is the biggest number at any one session of the registrars. Members of the Republican League were present during the session and assisted those who sought to be enrolled.

There will be one other session which will be held Wednesday evening, August 25th from 7.00 till 10.00 at the Town House.

Mango Lives Down Bad Reputation

The East Indian mango is one of the great fruits of the world. To those who have really tasted the good sorts of it the peach loses its place of highest honor. But the early travelers were more interested in describing its peculiarities than in extolling its wonderful fragrance and the depth of its flavors, for they told the plum and cherry eating inhabitants of the British Isles that the mango resembled a ball of tow soaked in turpentine and molasses, and said further that in order to eat it you must undress and climb into a bathtub and that after you ate it you must comb its yellow hairlike fibers out of your teeth.

No other fruit in the world has been so maligned. The mango trees, which are now loaded with their golden fruits in South Florida are so valuable that the mayors of the towns of South Florida are being beseeched to keep the boys from stealing the fruit from the trees, not because they are balls of tow soaked in molasses and turpentine but because, as they hang on the tree, they are worth twenty-five or more cents apiece, and a boy can eat up a five-dollar bill's worth in the time it takes to tell about it.

The Office of Foreign Seed and Plant Introduction of the United States Department of Agriculture has assembled, through the work of its explorers and through exchanges with the British East Indian departments of agriculture, one of the largest collections of selected mango varieties in the world. There are now fruiting at the Plant Introduction Field Station, Miami, Fla., about twenty varieties this year, and these represent the selections from more than seventy sorts of this great fruit. Some of these

Grange to Hold Outing in Walpole

The annual outing of Andover Grange will be held in conjunction with the State Grange Field Meeting which will be held at Norfolk County Agricultural School, Walpole, on Friday, August 20th from 10:30 a.m., on through the remainder of the day. In the morning there will be a baseball game between teams representing the Grange and the School. Other sports will be conducted with silver cups for prizes. A basket lunch will be served on the grounds at 12:30 and a dinner in the new barn at sixty cents per plate for those who notify the school not later than August 18th.

The afternoon program will include addresses by National Master Sherman J. Lowell of Freedom, N. Y., and State Master Leslie R. Smith. Past State Master Edward E. Chapman will lead the community singing and an orchestra will furnish the music.

It is hoped that all who are able will try to make the trip to Walpole. The transportation committee has not yet completed the arrangements, but is trying to secure a party of thirty to go in a barge. The expense for the round trip would be $1.50. Will all Grangers who wish to go by such a conveyance notify William Rennie or Herbert Carter as soon as possible?

have scarcely more fiber in them than a free-stone peach and can be cut open lengthwise and eaten as easily with a spoon as a Rocky Ford cantaloupe. They have an indescribably agreeable aroma reminiscent of pineapples. The mango tree, when it is in bearing, is a gorgeous sight, for it is a large long-lived tree and the golden-yellow fruits as they hang in great clusters from the dark-green foliage make one of the great tropical plant sights of the world.

To anyone living within reach of the Miami Plant Introduction Garden on Brickell Avenue it would be worth a long motor ride to see this remarkable sight.

The mango has come as a tree crop in Florida and, although it is tender and can not be grown above the line of heavy freezes, it is destined to add greatly to the charm of life in the tip end of the Florida peninsula.

Fatigue which is not recovered from after a night's rest, is incompatible with the leading of a normal, efficient, wholesome, and happy life.

TURKISH MOSQUE ON WHEELS

Enabled Pilgrims to Mecca to Conduct Their Devotions While on Way to Holy City.

The "chapel railway coaches, with seating accommodation for 90, now fitted to certain long-distance expresses in America, are not entirely a novelty.

A "mosque car" used to be run on the railway built 15 years ago between Damascus and Mecca by the capital being subscribed mainly by pious Mussulmans. All the rest of the rolling stock was obtained from countries outside Turkey, but the mosque car was built in Constantinople.

It was externally distinguished by a minaret about eight feet high projecting from the roof; the walls were inscribed with verses of the Koran, and at one end a large compass was hung, indicating the direction of the holy city.

Pilgrims to Mecca were thus able to conduct their devotions with full pomp and ceremony during the three days' journey from Damascus.—London Tit-Bits.

Grape Plume Moth

Backyard gardeners are asking what the insect is that is rolling the leaves at the end of the grape growth. This white fuzzy caterpillar is the grape plume moth. There is no practical way of controlling it except by opening up the leaves and killing the insect. If one tried to kill it by spraying it would be necessary to spray every few days.

It has always been the policy of the Standard Oil Company of New York to anticipate the public needs for gasoline and motor oils. Along a newly opened road or in a recently developed suburb, the Socony sign of quality and service is invariably there to supply the needs of every motorist.

And Socony service fulfills the weekly demand for one drum of gasoline or a hundred, with equal promptness and care.

Socony gasoline is a standard-quality motor fuel—always uniform, always clean, always powerful. It is chock full of mileage. It represents a half-century of experience and constant improvement.

Five Minute Chats on Our Presidents

By JAMES MORGAN

JOHN TYLER

1790—March 29, John Tyler born in Charles City, Charles City county, Va.
1827-36—United States senator.
1840—Elected vice president.
1841—April 6, became tenth president, aged 51.
1845—March 3, signed joint resolution for annexation of Texas.
1851—President of the peace convention in Washington. Elected to Confederate congress.
1862—Jan. 17, died in Richmond, Va., aged 71.

ALTHOUGH William Henry Harrison was elected to the presidency as the log-cabin candidate, in the first of our frenzied, parading campaigns, he was born to one of the first families of Virginia, in a manor house on the banks of the aristocratic James. As a son of Benjamin Harrison, signer of the Declaration, with the blood of Pocahontas in his veins, and as a descendant of a Cromwellian colonel who signed the death warrant of a king, no president has had a longer, more historic lineage.

In ability William Henry Harrison fell below the standard of his predecessors. He was elected not because he was a great statesman or a great soldier, but because he was thoroughly representative of the new West, which was flattered to see in the White House for the first time a man created in its own image.

At Harrison's inauguration the presidency entered an eclipse and was held for 20 years by secondary characters, who reigned, but did not rule. With men of the eminence of Clay and Webster, Calhoun and Benson administration and for the Whig party. Early in the extra session of congress, that impression of the senator from Kentucky was sharply corrected by a presidential veto of one of his own bills—a banking bill.

The Whigs were wild with rage; the Democrats filled with glee. The Democratic senators hastened in a body to the White House, where they were patting Tyler on the back while a Whig mob outside in the yard was making a vociferous, but futile protest. When the next veto came in Tyler himself called the cabinet together and the members, with one exception, agreed to resign.
The exception was none other than that of the secretary of state, Daniel Webster. "Where am I to go?" the god-like Daniel thundered in his bewilderment. Some told him to go to one place, some to another. He held on for two years, until he had concluded the negotiation of the Ashburton treaty, which fixed the disputed boundary between Maine and Canada, and then he resigned.

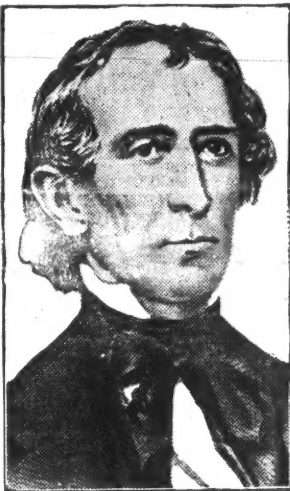

Upon Webster's retirement, Tyler installed in the state department his son and idol, John C. Calhoun, and thus completed the overturn. The cabinet was now out and out Democratic and of the pro-slavery brand.
Texas had seceded from Mexico, which had abolished slavery, and its American settlers, who were facing the choice of slave labor or free labor, were anxious to be admitted to the Union. The slave holders of the southern states wanted to expand their power over the vast Texan empire as an offset to the rapid expansion of the free states in the great West. But northern sentiment was opposed.

At an opportune moment for the annexationists, the ubiquitous John Bull, with his omnipresent gunboat, appeared on the Texan scene as a mediator between Mexicans and Texans. His entry gave the slave interests the needed villain for the play, and the cry went up that we must annex Texas to keep the British from grabbing it.

Nevertheless the senate rejected overwhelmingly the treaty of annexation. Thereupon Tyler proposed to beat the devil around the stump, and Texas was annexed the last night of the administration by a simple joint resolution, rushed through the two houses of congress.

BASEBALL

K. of C. 4—Uswoco 1

The Knights of Columbus won an interesting game from the strong Uswoco nine of Lawrence on the local playground Tuesday evening, the score being 4 to 1. The game was closely contested and was played in record time, fifty minutes for seven innings. "Jiggs" Donahue and Henry Dane were on the mound and hits were scarce. The Knights getting seven off "Jiggs" and the Uswoco four off Dane. It was the first game Dane had pitched for the locals this season. Dugan, Trow and Welch led with the stick for the Knights.

The feature was a triple play in the fourth which robbed the locals of at least one run. Trow doubled and went to third on Dugan's hit. Bowman hit back of third, but P. Harrison made a catch, getting Dugan at first and Horace Harrison threw to the plate nabbing Trow who tried to score on the play. The score:

Smith and Dove 5—Monomac 2

Smith and Dove got back into its stride Tuesday evening on the mill diamond with a victory over the Monomac Spinning team of Lawrence. Porter was on the mound for the local side and pitched a good steady game, while the visitors found the ball they could not hit safely. The number of chances accepted by the Smith and Dove fielders was the feature of an otherwise featureless game. Porter won his own game in the third inning with a three-base hit after singles by Dimlich and Dalton and an error by Monomac's first baseman, filled the bases.

A Million Dollar Service

"The assistance rendered the cantaloupe growers and shippers in the Imperial Valley of California by the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture, has saved the industry $1,000,000 a season," was the statement recently made by the growers and shippers concerned.

According to marketing experts of the Bureau of Markets, the cantaloupe interests in this section have periodically experienced great difficulty in marketing their crop, a highly perishable one, and a crop that should be sold promptly to avert financial disaster. Production has repeatedly outrun distribution.

Some years ago when the bureau established its news service in connection with the volume of receipts and the prices paid for fruits and vegetables at large marketing centers throughout the United States, a special representative was sent to the cantaloupe-growing section to assist the shippers with the efficient distribution of the crop during the rush season. Some idea of the size of the job can be had from the fact that 5,714 cars of cantaloupes were shipped in 1917, 4,405 in 1918, and 7,799 in 1919.

Similar service is rendered other industries by the bureau's representatives; whether it is peaches, sweet potatoes, cotton, wool, oranges, apples, or any other extensively used commodity.

By the time the indoor sports were finished the diamond on Brothers' Field had dried sufficiently to allow the baseball game to be played and a four-inning contest between two nines from the various departments captained by Chas. Collins and Dwight L. Lawrence resulted in a 6 to 2 victory for the latter.

Several other events were held on the field and resulted as follows:

Tug of war for women—Won by Mrs. Bowker's team.

Following the field events the party repaired to the Peabody house where a buffet lunch was served under the efficient direction of V. D. Harrington of the Academy. Prizes were awarded the winners of the various contests by President Ripley and he in turn was given a surprise when, on behalf of the staff, Henry Patten presented him with a beautiful solid gold fountain pen. President Ripley accepted the gift in an appropriate speech.

Dancing was afterwards enjoyed until ten o'clock, music being furnished by Foss's orchestra of Lawrence.

The outing was a great success and before the guests left they gave three cheers and a tiger for their host, President Ripley.

The committee in charge of the affair comprised Roy A. Hitchins, Edward W. Horton, Elliott L. Bowker, Charles Collins, Dwight L. Lawrence, Edward Messinger, C. Carlton Kimball, Miss Nellie M. Caldwell, Miss Angela O'Brien, Miss Florence Potter and Edwin Otis.

REMEMBER the time the first automobile parade was organized? Even the good old torchlight procession had to give way before the advance of progress.

Tires are often sold same way politics are.

The last people to wake up to what they are getting are the people who pay the bills.

The bills are getting too big these days in both cases. And the man who is feeling it most with respect to tires is the man who owns a moderate-price car.

The idea that the small car owner doesn't need a good tire is rapidly going the way of all mistaken ideas.

He needs it more than anyone else. It's part of our job, as we view it, to see that he gets it.

Our tire service starts with good tires—U. S. Tires. All sizes made to a single standard of quality—none graded down to the price of the car they will go on.

U. S. perfected the first straight side automobile tire—the first pneumatic truck tire.

The U. S. guarantee is for the life of the tire, and not for a limited mileage.

When we recommend and sell U. S. Tires we do so in the interest of greater tire economy. It is our experience that that is the best way to build up a sound and sizable business.

The Value of Time

Our valuation of Time depends upon our valuation of life. We are masters of our destiny only in so far as we are masters of our time. And our mastery of Time is the one key that can unlock the door of that treasure house called "Opportunity" wherein is our true happiness and greatest wealth.

Time is the real wealth of life. It is given equally to the babe born in cottage or palace, and nothing so vividly expresses the thoughtfulness of man and his waste of it.

If you value your life do not waste your time, but cultivate the habit of accuracy; a WALTHAM WATCH will help you to be on time.

RED CROSS WILL HOLD FOURTH ROLL CALL NOV. 11-25

Announces Plans for Annual Appeal

Renew Their Allegiance.

The American Red Cross will hold its Fourth Roll Call from Armistice Day, November 11, to Thanksgiving Day, November 25. In this period the organization will make its nation-wide annual appeal to its members to renew their allegiance and support and ask those who are not members to join the ranks.

With more than 10,000,000 members, not including the 14,000,000 members of the Junior Auxiliary, the American Red Cross has today more than three times the combined enrollment of all the rest of the Red Cross Societies of the world. Its present membership is more than twenty times its enrollment previous to the World War. The Japanese Red Cross stands second to the American Red Cross with 1,900,000 members, according to the latest available figures. Argentina has 4,000 members; Brazil, 6,000; China, 26,000; Denmark, 25,000; France, 250,000; Holland, 18,000; Italy, 300,000; New Zealand, 10,000; Norway, 9,000; Poland, 30,000; Portugal, 5,500; Roumania, 14,000; Serbia, 2,850; Spain, 63,000; Sweden, 65,000; Switzerland, 42,500; Uruguay, 300. Current figures for England, Canada and Australia, which have important organizations, are not available.

Primarily for Memberships.
The Roll Call appeal this year will be primarily for memberships. There are four classes of membership; first, the dollar annual membership, which is divided on a fifty-fifty basis, one-half going to National Headquarters and one-half to the Chapter that secured the membership for its own use; second, the five dollar or contributing membership of which the Chapter retains four dollars, the remaining dollar going to the National Organization; the ten dollar sustaining membership, of which the Chapter retains eight dollars and National Headquarters receives two dollars. The fees for all life memberships, fifty dollars, and all patron memberships, one hundred dollars, go to the endowment fund by regulations of the by-laws.

ONE THING THEY OVERLOOKED

British Military Authorities Forgot the Humble Printer in Desire to Preserve War Secrets.

The marquis of Hartington tells an episode from the war days when the spy scare was at its height, according to a writer in the Halifax Chronicle. Certain confidential information that the military authorities wanted to keep absolutely secret was sent round by trusted couriers in locked dispatch boxes, with elaborate precautions of signing and countersigning and checking every stage. No one below the rank of major general was entrusted with the knowledge, and even these were bound by tremendous oaths of secrecy.

After a time it was found that these weighty documents, which were circulated in printed form, were being set up by ordinary printers, who were under no obligation to preserve secrecy, and, in fact, took no precautions whatever against leakage. However, nothing did leak out, but the military mandarins, it is said, shuddered when they realized the risks that had been run.

Membership Card for Everyone.

Every individual who renews membership or joins the Red Cross in the Fourth Roll Call will receive a receipt in the form of a membership card, in addition to the membership button for 1921 and the Fourth Roll Call service flag.

The National organization will not this year make a general appeal for funds unless some now unforeseen emergency of world-wide importance arises previous to the Roll Call period, but Chapters have the privilege of raising funds in connection with the Roll Call in their own territories to carry on their peace-time programs developed since the Third Roll Call last November. The Chapters will set their own quotas for their local appeals.

In the Third Roll Call the Red Cross based its appeal for continued support on its obligations to complete its pre-war work overseas and its service to men who served in the army and navy of the United States during the war, and on the peace-time program which it was about to inaugurate. This year, in addition to the work it is still continuing overseas and its official service to the peacetime army and navy of the United States as well as to the sick and disabled ex-service men, the Red Cross can point to definite accomplishments in this country in the development of its peace program, including preparedness for disaster relief, the establishment of public health nursing services, the teaching of home hygiene, dietetics, and first aid, the extension of home service to civilian families, and the creation of a comprehensive health service.

In a statement discussing the basis of the Fourth Roll Call and the spirit that must animate its leaders, Frederick C. Munroe, General Manager of the National Organization, said:

Value Evident To All.

"While the Roll Call this year is primarily to secure public approval of what we have done and are to do in the advancement of the Peace Program, it is both fitting and necessary that the completion of our war tasks at home and abroad should play a part. When the statement of our peace work is published showing in statistical and narrative form the sum of our operations in disaster relief and preparedness for the future, in the placing and education of public health nurses, in the teaching of home care of the sick, first aid and dietetics; in the extension of home service to civilian families and in the advancement of the cause of public health, the importance of the Red Cross in the life of our country will be evident to all.

"We feel pride in what has been done to meet our obligations to service and ex-service men and their families in Divisions and Chapters and in Military, Naval and Public Health Service Hospitals. Of equal importance and of even more dramatic significance has been the work of our foreign units in fighting conditions of disease and destitution. We ask the approval of the American people for this work and accept the duty of helping to make clear to them that humanitarian considerations and self-interest alike require every possible effort of their part to prevent the spread of conditions prevalent in Eastern and Central Europe. In this connection I have recently addressed a letter to you asking Chapters to make layettes and clothing for distribution in these European fields.

Contributions for Overseas Work.

"I wish also to make clear our attitude towards contributions of money for use in the same fields. While the Red Cross is not conducting a campaign for a specific sum for use in Europe it wishes the people to understand clearly that it is not only willing but eager to accept any contributions, restricted or unrestricted, that individuals, groups or organizations may wish to make. It is highly important that the duty of the Red Cross be emphasized from now forward. If restricted contributions are made the Red Cross will endeavor to carry out the exact wishes of the donors. It cannot, however, promise in every case to do so, since contributions might be made for use in a field where the Red Cross does not and cannot operate. In such cases the Red Cross will exhaust every effort to get relief to the indicated field but if unable to do so it wishes to reserve the right to employ the funds where in its judgment they will serve the greatest need.

"The basis of our appeal then includes both peace and war obligations at home and abroad. We submit our case to the people on our record of performance and confidently ask them to approve it and thus give us their mandate to go on with our program for the year 1921.

No Greater Cause in World.

"There is no greater cause in the world today than that of the American Red Cross. The Roll Call this year may be made at least as great a success as last year if we attack the work with complete belief. It may be made an even greater success if we approach it confidently and energetically. We hear too much of how tired people are of campaigns and drives. They cannot afford to be tired of such an appeal as our Roll Call embodies. It is their cause and it requires only our intelligent direction to make that fact so apparent that they cannot escape it. We must make Chapter leaders see that it is both their duty and their interest to work hard and early in order that they may impress upon their communities the vital importance of a successful Roll Call.

3697 ARE TAUGHT HOME

HYGIENE BY RED CROSS

More than 3,600 women and girls in Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont have received careful instruction in the principles of prevention of disease, proper methods of caring for the sick in their own homes, and the care of babies, well or ill, during the past year, as students in more than 270 classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, conducted by Red Cross Chapters in the New England Division.

In one Chapter territory in western Massachusetts was a class made up entirely of women who are grandmothers. Another class, in Amesbury, was composed of nuns. In a class in Salem was a woman of 75 years, whose average mark for the course was 87 per cent, and her record was marked "particularly good."

"The instruction received by the women, old and young, who have taken these Red Cross courses," says Mrs. Isabelle W. Baker, Director of the Division Bureau of Instruction, "will enable them not only to take better care of their homes day by day, but to serve the members of their families intelligently in sickness. Their knowledge would prove particularly valuable in an epidemic when trained nursing service is often difficult and sometimes impossible to secure. In other words their knowledge, gained in our Red Cross classes, is a protection to their families, and may save lives. And in emergency many of these women would undoubtedly enroll for service outside their own homes, through the Red Cross."

The records for the year ending June 30, completed this week by Mrs. Baker, show that 3,697 women and girls were enrolled in courses in Home Nursing and Care of the Sick. Of this number 2,377 received certificates, 195 finished the courses but did not receive certificates and 1,125 were continuing their studies on July 1.

There were 272 classes under instruction, 208 completed by June 30, 56 continuing into July, and only three discontinued.

Massachusetts led in the number of students and classes 3,236 students in 235 classes. New Hampshire Chapters had 306 students in 26 classes, Maine 83 students in six classes, and Vermont 67 students in five classes. Rhode Island had no classes.

K. OF C. WINS GAME

the players freely and it seemed to be a game of brain work from the start.

That the best team won there is no doubt. The batting record shows this if nothing more; the K. of C's getting seven hits to Smith and Dove's one. The breaks were about evenly divided and there was not a question about any decision of Umpire Ryley. The most costly play of the game was the mull of an easy fly by Killackey that netted two runs for the Knights of Columbus. With men on third and second, Remmes hit an easy one to right field which was dropped and O'Connell scored, tying the score. A hit later by Cussen brought in the winning run.

Smith and Dove started the game well when Payne, the first man up, walked and after stealing second, scored when men were being retired on first. They scored again in the fourth when E. O'Connell made an error on Partridge's hard hit ball and McDonald followed with a pretty hit to right field. The K. of C. runs came in the fifth and seventh innings. The first was made by Bowman who after hitting a smashing double to centre came home when Payne threw wild to McDonald in trying to catch McNally at first. In the seventh three hits in a row and Killackey's error spelled defeat for Smith and Dove, two runs coming over.

Both Remmes and Morrissey pitched good ball, the former having the better of the argument with only one hit against him and ten strike-outs to his credit. Morrissey struck out five but allowed seven hits.

Notes on the Game

We take our records of the game from the K. of C. score book but as an eyewitness the writer cannot fully agree with his method. In two cases at least, hits were given to K. of C. batters when unquestionably errors should have been awarded the fielders. The instances referred to were O'Connell's hit to Morrissey, who, after stopping the ball clearly fell in trying to make the throw and Payne's poor throw to first of Bowman's slow grounder in the fifth.

Umpire Ryley had many close decisions but handled the game admirably not a disagreement being registered.

completely in the seventh crowding the field closely. The K. of C. rooters were the worst offenders getting too close at the start of the game. The Smith and Dove rooters were not to be denied for they were held in leash until the seventh when they became unmanageable. Electricity to Locate Oil.

New uses for electricity are constantly appearing. One of the latest is the detection of crude oil in the earth instead of boring for it. It is stated that crude petroleum has been located electrically in the shallow oil field near Corsicana, Tex., and that further tests are being made around Burkburnett. A series of batteries is used for the test, the negative terminal being connected to a wire which is dropped into a dry waterhole, valley or indentation, and the positive terminal being connected to a "land wire," which is used to make contact at various points on the surface of the field investigated. It is stated that the higher electrical resistance of oil compared with other constituents of the earth, permits it to be located by the reduced deflection of a sensitive instrument in the circuit.

Cultivate the Garden

The hard, long rain of last week, packed the soil down so that every bit of the garden should be hoed over. A light dust mulch should be maintained upon the surface soil throughout the growing season. — Middlesex Co. Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics.
